

TIME

Austria's young Chancellor is bringing the far right into the mainstream

Extreme Makeover

By Simon Shuster

PHOTO: JAMES HAMILTON/GETTY IMAGES
STYLING: JESSICA WATSON
HAIR: ANDREW GARDNER
MAKEUP: JESSICA WATSON
AUSTRIA: PHILIPP H. / PHOTOFEST
PHOTOGRAPHY: PHOTOFEST

4 | Conversation
6 | For the Record

The Brief

News from the U.S. and around the world

7 | What's in the new climate report

9 | GM cars on the chopping block

10 | Getting works of art back home

11 | Anjelica Huston remembers filmmaker Nicolas Roeg

12 | TIME with ... Argentine President Mauricio Macri

15 | China's claims of gene-edited babies

16 | Migrants in turmoil in Tijuana

The View

Ideas, opinion, innovations

19 | James Stavridis on the Russian threat to Ukraine—and beyond

21 | Ian Bremmer on who can replace Germany's Angela Merkel

21 | Brexit and U.S.-U.K. ties

22 | Six ways to move more

Features

Bound by Grief

Parents of kids killed in school shootings turn to each other for support
By Haley Sweetland Edwards and Belinda Luscombe 24

Far-Right Turn

Instead of battling extremists, Austrian Chancellor Sebastian Kurz is partnering with them
By Simon Shuster 32

Falling Angels

The Victoria's Secret ideal of what's sexy collides with women who say "no sale"
By Amy Odell 38

Time Off

What to watch, read, see and do

45 | A movie season of women in power

47 | Quick Talk with Britain's Olivia Colman

48 | Marveling at Mrs. Maisel

50 | Michelle Obama's Becoming

52 | 8 Questions for director Peter Jackson

Central American migrants heading toward the U.S. border cross the nearly dry riverbed of Mexico's Tijuana River on Nov. 25

Photograph by Pedro Pardo—AFP/Getty Images

ON THE COVER:
Photograph by Mark Peckmezian for TIME